She is best described as childish and rebellious, often desiring attention because her mother Valda has rarely had time for her.. Her English dub voice has her speak in a dialect that happens to be typical of Southern California.. Seeking counsel, she heads to the Inn near the house where she was recovering from the cold and finds Alrants local fortune teller.

If either hero is chosen as the main protagonist, the main villains will be the Crimson Wizard and his mother, the Dragon Lord, and the final dungeon will be the Dragonsmaw caverns.. Upon switching classes, she will be able to have access to more powerful magic; her Light and Dark classes primarily allow her to use powerful Light and Dark magic, respectively.. Defeat the Dragon Lord and his followers as well as the other two evil factions the heroes oppose.. Despite not being able to use magic at first, she begins to learn spells from the Mana spirits that join her and the other heroes over the course of their adventures.

Her mother, Valda, uses magic to keep the snow at bay to keep the Altenish citadel in a perpetual Spring, but like her country, is cold and unfeeling towards her daughter, making her lonely and selfish as a result of her upbringing.. To continue her spell and prevent Altena from freezing over, Valda, following the Crimson Wizard's advice, decides to invade the other nations and claim their Mana Stones, which, once done, would unlock the power of Mana within them and open the way to the Sword of Mana and its infinite power so that her spell would be able to continue.. Promo artwork for the release of the Trials of Mana remake featuring Angela, the other heroes, and Faerie.. Unfortunately, the spells used to unlock the powers of each Mana Stone require a sacrifice when cast, and she decides she and the Crimson Wizard are far too important for such a thing, so she decides Angela should be the sacrifice for the Mana Stone of Water instead.. Angela is also short-tempered and stubborn and tends to pout and throw fits when things don't go her way.. She often kept dodging on her studies to the point that not even her mother thinks she has any magical talents within her.. As she traverses the snowfields, she soon succumbs to hypothermia and falls unconscious. 0041d406d9 Xfa Acrobat For Mac
